Be a Part of Changing Lives! Help Build Solar-Powered Wells for Essential Humanitarian Relief in Turkana, Kenya.

For the people who live in Enkariak-Ronkena, Marurui and Impikani, water availability, accessibility, quality and safety have reached extremely critical levels.

- ▶ Prolonged droughts, rising groundwater salinity, and insufficient infrastructure have triggered critical clean water shortages, disrupting pastoralist livelihoods and leaving hundreds of thousands vulnerable to acute food insecurity and serious health issues.
- ▶ Villagers, primarily women and children, often trek long distances to fetch water from unprotected hand-dug wells or seasonal riverbeds—averaging a 10-mile daily journey to access a water source.
- ▶ Unsafe, murky water sources and inadequate water systems result in high malnutrition rates, notably impacting young children and nursing mothers, along with severe dental fluorosis, bone deformities, and contamination hazards.
- ▶ 40% of adult and 50% of children hospitalizations are due to water-related infections.

- Typhoid Fever
- Cholera & dysentery
- Parasitic worms
